

History of Alzheimer's Disease Resource Center, Inc....

Founded in May of 1983, we are a non-profit, charitable tax-exempt organization dedicated to family service, education and research. ADRC currently advocates for over 60,000 individuals living on Long Island who have been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease, as well as for their families and/or caregivers. Alzheimer's Disease Resource Center, Inc.(ADRC), formerly known as the Alzheimer's Association Long Island Chapter, separated from the National Alzheimer's Association in October 2012. Through an Arbitration process ADRC has been awarded all of its assets – tangible and intangible. ADRC continues to operate under its original Federal ID number and has been issued its own IRS Determination letter under that Federal ID number. ADRC's original NYS Articles of Incorporation have been amended to reflect our new name and ADRC continues to hold its original NYS Tax Exemption number.

In 2012 ADRC moved into a 9000 square foot building which houses the Mickey and Felice Neuwirth Care Center. The Center is currently under construction and when finished will include classrooms, a research library and an Adult Daycare program focused on individuals with Young Onset and Early Stage Alzheimer's Disease. We have constructed a beautiful Serenity Garden which has already proven its therapeutic value.

ADRC has also developed a number of training programs for professional caregivers, presentations for the community, and produces annually the ADRC Art Expression Program. The new Center also plays host to five Caregiver Support Groups and a Support Group for individuals with Young Onset Alzheimer's Disease.
